INTRODUCTION

“The best of ownership with the best of renting.”

“The best of independence with the best of support.”

This manual is designed to help people in rural Wisconsin develop housing cooperatives composed of a small number of adjacent single family homes specifically designed for senior citizens. A companion manual, the Development Manual for Small Rural Home Cooperatives, covers the development process in detail.

These manuals refer to and are based on a cooperative housing development that took place in Adams-Friendship, Wisconsin. The co-op was supported by a State of Wisconsin Homecoming Community Housing Partnership grant, which helped pay for some of the pre-development costs, and by development assistance from the Foundation for Rural Housing. The funding sought to create an alternative for rural residents to moving into a nursing home, a concern for many senior citizens.

The manuals are designed to help others “jump start” their own development process.

WHY CHOOSE

a COOPERATIVE?

In cooperative housing, a group of people jointly own the cooperative by buying shares (stock) in the cooperative corporation. They share responsibilities for making decisions about their co-op, and share many of the co-op's expenses, including maintenance, repairs, and property taxes. Each member pays a monthly fee to cover these costs.

The cooperative member-owner-resident (hereafter referred to as member and/or member-owner) has an exclusive right to occupy a particular home. The cooperative's bylaws and membership documents are established by the members and may be modified by the members. These documents describe the members' rights and responsibilities. Members also vote for a board of directors, which approves an annual budget. When a cooperative is small, it is likely that all members will participate directly in making many decisions.

The housing cooperative model permits a wide range of legal and financial flexibility in its structure. The housing cooperative may own the land but not the improvements, or it may own both. Equity appreciation may be determined by the market, or may be limited by a formula established in the co-op bylaws. A typical formula is 1% per year. A limit on equity appreciation assures a small return on members' investment, but keeps the housing unit affordable for the next member-owners. A market rate cooperative permits members to receive a market rate of return when they sell their share.

Cooperative homeowners receive tax and financial benefits just as other homeowners do. If the cooperative corporation has a mortgage loan, they may deduct their pro-rata share of the interest payments, as well as interest on their personal mortgage (share) loan. They may also deduct their pro-rata share of the real estate taxes from their income tax. They qualify for homestead or other state tax exemptions, and if they sell their home, any equity the property may have accrued is their gain, subject to limitations imposed through the bylaws. Government programs with "spend down" asset requirements treat shares in a cooperative as home ownership equity.

In addition to the economic benefits, the social framework of cooperative living has proven to be very beneficial to residents. As reported in a 2000 USDA study, the overwhelming majority of residents of rural senior housing cooperatives perceived that the co-op had a positive effect on their sense of life satisfaction, good health, social contact, and ability to live independently. The study showed that an improved sense of self-control, mutual determination, and interdependence, combined with a heightened sense of community and caring for each other, are integral components of cooperative living.

Housing choices: comparisons

Prospective cooperative members may find the co-op concept easier to understand after they've seen a chart comparing cooperative housing with other forms of housing. The following chart details benefits and cost comparisons for four types of housing.

CO-OP HOME	RENTAL	CONDOMINIUM	SOLE OWNER OR CONDO
Ownership
Member-owners are the sole owners of the co-op corporation which owns the land and/or homes. Members have exclusive rights to occupy a particular home.	The landlord owns the land and building.	Condominium members have a title to the dwelling unit plus a portion of the common elements (land and buildings).	Owners have title to the home and land.
Monthly costs
Members pay monthly fee: a pro-rata share of actual annual operating costs.	Tenant pays the rent specified in a lease, which includes the landlord's profit. Lease terms are subject to change.	Members pay monthly fee: a pro-rata share of actual annual operating costs.	Owner pays all taxes, insurance, maintenance, etc.
Maintenance & repairs
Cooperative is responsible for some or all of the costs, based on decisions of members.	Landlord is responsible for all maintenance and repairs.	Condominium association is responsible for maintenance of spaces exterior to the condos. Members are responsible for interior maintenance.	Owner is responsible for all maintenance and repairs.
Sales/equity appreciation
Equity depends on formula determined by members in bylaws. Members must approve sales.	Any increase in value belongs to landlord. Renters have no control over who buys or rents.	Unit owners have control over sale of their units. New buyers must accept conditions imposed by the condominium association.	Any increase in value belongs to the owner, who controls sale of own unit but not that of neighboring properties.
Taxes
Co-op owners enjoy same benefits as homeowners. Benefit is based on value of share.	Tenant may be eligible for home-stead tax credit based on rent paid.	Benefits are based on the condo unit and on owner's share of common areas.	Benefits are based on the value of the home.

Monthly cost comparison

This chart details approximate monthly costs for three housing choices: a cooperative home, rental, and sole owner/condominium. It is based on an $87,000 home (or similar rental value) with homestead tax credit included in the property tax calculation. Mortgage payments are not included in the table, and would obviously be additional costs for the owner of a cooperative home, condominium, or sole owner home.

Expenses

	CO-OP HOME	RENTAL	SOLE OWNER OR CONDO
Benefits
	Build or maintain equity with home and/or equity on land, according to formula in co-op bylaws. Co-op arranges maintenance as defined in the occupancy agreement.	No worry about maintenance.	Build equity when housing values rise.
Maintenance decisions
	Co-op is responsible for some or all maintenance. Members make decisions on maintenance as a group, usually through the board of directors.	No control on maintenance decisions, which may not meet standards.	Responsible for maintenance of home. Condo association is responsible for shared spaces.
Equity appreciation
	Equity appreciation depends on market and co-op's structure.	No chance to build equity; rents may rise.	Equity appreciation depends on market.
Decision-making
	Member makes many decisions on their own home. Other decisions are made as a group, usually through the board of directors.	Landlord makes decisions.	Owners make decisions on their own home. Other decisions are made as a group, usually through the board of directors.

COOPERATIVE BASICS

Cooperatives are businesses or organizations that are owned and governed by the people who use their products or services. They share the costs and the benefits, and they control the operations and policies, usually through an elected board of directors.

There are over 48,000 cooperatives in the United States, according to the National Cooperative Business Association. Co-ops are part of every sector of the economy, including agriculture, credit, utilities, health, and food.

Many cooperatives are small businesses, serving people in local communities. Other cooperatives, like Land O'Lakes and Ocean Spray, are multi-billion dollar companies with strong consumer brands.

Over 6,400 housing cooperatives provide homes to 1.5 million households. Cooperatives worldwide adhere to basic principles which were developed over one hundred years ago and refined in the past decade. Like other co-ops, housing co-ops should follow the seven basic cooperative principles.

The seven cooperative principles

1) Voluntary and Open Membership

Cooperatives are voluntary organizations, open to all persons able to use their services and willing to accept the responsibilities of membership, without gender, social, racial, political, or religious discrimination.

2) Democratic Member Control

Cooperatives are democratic organizations controlled by their members, who actively participate in setting their policies and making decisions. Men and women serving as elected representatives are accountable to the membership.

3) Member Economic Participation

Members contribute equitably to, and democratically control, the capital of their cooperative. At least part of that capital is usually the common property of the cooperative.

4) Autonomy and Independence

Cooperatives are autonomous, self-help organizations controlled by their members.

5) Education, Training & Information

Cooperatives provide education and training for their members, elected representatives, managers, and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their cooperatives. They inform the general public - particularly young people and opinion leaders - about the nature and benefits of cooperation.

6) Cooperation among Cooperatives

Cooperatives serve their members most effectively and strengthen the cooperative movement by working together through local, national, regional, and international structures.

7) Concern for Community

Cooperatives work for the sustainable development of their communities through policies approved by their members.

Cooperative Housing Terms

Annual meeting:

A meeting of all cooperative members. This meeting is legally required of all cooperatives. At the meeting, members may hear financial reports, elect representatives to the board, amend the by-laws, and conduct other business.

Articles of Incorporation:

In Wisconsin, this document is filed with and accepted by the Wisconsin Department of Financial Institutions of the Secretary of State. It establishes the cooperative as an official association, incorporated to provide housing to the cooperative's members. It also provides the cooperative with all of the powers, purposes and objectives set forth in the Articles of Incorporation, which can be amended if the need arises.

Board of directors (or "Board"):

The executive and administrative entity of the cooperative corporation. Elected as provided in the bylaws to act for and direct the affairs of the cooperative in the interests of the members. In some small cooperatives (such as Adams-Friendship) all co-op members are on the Board of Directors.

Bylaws:

Bylaws are established for the purpose of managing and directing the affairs of the cooperative. They must be consistent with the state statute on cooperatives (in Wisconsin, Chapter 185). Among other things, they include information on the rights and responsibilities of members, governance, transfer of shares, and equity appreciation limits.

Cooperative fees:

The estimated cash amount which the board of directors shall determine to be necessary or proper for:

- (a) the operation, maintenance, care, alteration, and improvement of the property during the year;
- (b) the creation of such reserves as it may deem proper;
- (c) the payment of any obligations, liabilities, or expenses incurred.

The co-op fees may be adjusted or re-determined from time to time by the board in accordance with, and subject to the limitations of, the bylaws and the occupancy agreement.

Equity:

The dollar value of a property owner's interest in an investment. It is the difference between the value of property and the total amount of mortgages against the property.

House rules:

The rules and regulations for the use and operation of the cooperative's property. The initial rules are an appendix to the occupancy agreement. The co-op's board of directors can change rules pursuant to the provisions set forth by the bylaws.

Limited equity formula:

A formula that describes how the equity in a cooperative may appreciate. This is sometimes an annual percentage, or it may be related to the Consumer Price Index or other cost of living indicators. The formula affects the price at which members may sell their co-op unit.

Member:

The owner of a Membership Certificate, which entitles the member to execute an Occupancy Agreement (i.e. live in the specific home). By virtue of ownership of a Membership Certificate, the member shall be a member of the cooperative association, which includes all of the co-op's members. The cooperative shall make membership available on a voluntary basis, with no discrimination on the basis of gender, marital status, sexual preference, or physical challenge to all persons who are both able to make use of its services and are willing to accept the responsibilities of membership.

Membership Certificate:

A certificate evidencing the name of the registered holder(s) of a cooperative share, which represents the right of the household to occupy a specific place in the cooperative. There may be more than one person in a household, but only one membership and one corresponding vote.

Occupancy Agreement:

The agreement that governs the relations between the co-op and the member, as occupant. It specifies the rights and obligations of the member and the cooperative.

Occupancy Memo:

A proprietary lease agreement giving the member the right to occupy a specific unit within the cooperative. In the hybrid model outlined in this manual, it was filed like a deed.

Quorum:

The minimum number of people that must be at a meeting to conduct official business for the cooperative.

Reserve fund:

The repair and replacement reserve is a savings fund established by the co-op. Maintained in accordance with the by-laws, it is to be used for repairs and replacements.

Share:

Represents an individual's right to occupy a specific space within a housing cooperative.

Share loan:

A loan taken out by members to purchase a share in a housing cooperative.

Transfer Value Formula:

The transfer value is the dollar amount for which a member's share may be sold, as specified in the bylaws. The formula calculates the value of improvements when a cooperative unit is transferred from one owner to another.

Equity structure in cooperatives

Equity is the dollar value of a property owner's interest in an investment. It is defined as the difference between the value of property and the total amount of mortgages against the property. The housing cooperative model can be adapted to a wide range of financial structures.

Share of equity owned by members

In a typical housing cooperative, the cooperative corporation owns the land and all of the improvements on the land. Members own all of the shares in the corporation.

In a full equity cooperative, each member purchases a share which represents the full value of their unit, in addition to a share of the land and shared common spaces. If members need to borrow money to pay for the share, they can apply to a lender for a "share loan." A share loan is taken out by a member to buy a share (representing a housing unit) in a housing cooperative.

In other cooperatives, each member purchases a share which represents a portion of the value of their unit, as well as a portion of the value of the land and shared common spaces. The cooperative corporation owns the balance of the value of the property. When the cooperative is developed, the cooperative assumes a master mortgage, often at favorable rates, and members pay a portion of this mortgage as part of their monthly fee.

In a leasehold co-op, the member-owners lease the property from a landlord or non-profit organization, and operate the building as a co-op. Members have no equity ownership in the cooperative, but may benefit from reductions in operating costs created by their care and stewardship of the property.

Appreciation of equity

In a market rate co-op, units are sold at full market value, allowing for maximum appreciation of the member's equity.

A co-op can adopt bylaw provisions that limit the return on equity received by members when they sell their unit. Typically, this strategy is employed to maintain long-term housing affordability and to retain the value of any public subsidy that may have been used in financing the creation of the co-op. Because this type of co-op limits each unit's equity appreciation, it is called a "limited equity" co-op. These co-ops adopt a formula that allows share values to increase at a modest rate (1% per year is typical) or by the depreciated value of improvements, or by some combination of these values.

In Adams-Friendship, a Transfer Value Formula was developed to clarify the calculation of the value of improvements made to the cooperative homes.

Transfer Value Formula

Initial Acquisition Price (IAP)
+ Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for ___ years
 [# of years I occupied the private dwelling]
+ Net value of improvements
= Highest price I may charge for my Occupancy Interest

Example of the Transfer Value Formula:

Jane purchases her Occupancy Interest for the Initial Acquisition Price of $75,000, lives in the Private Dwelling for 10 years, and adds a Cooperative-approved tool shed, with a net improvement value of $500 (even though it cost $900 to build).

Inputting the numbers into the formula:

Initial Acquisition Price (IAP) [$75,000]
+ Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for 10 years [7,846.66]
+ Net value of improvements [$500]
= Highest price Jane may charge for her Occupancy Interest
= $83,346.66.

The Transfer Value is not a guaranteed price for an occupancy interest, but a ceiling price that may be charged to a willing eligible buyer. The net improvement value does not usually equal the cost of the improvement.

In the example above, Jane's tool shed cost $900 to build but added only $500 in value to the private dwelling, as determined by a certified appraiser.

Governing the cooperative

The function of the temporary board

A temporary (or interim) board is often used while a cooperative is getting started. Depending on the development process, this board may direct the formal/informal marketing efforts, identify sites, and make the basic decisions on the structure of the co-op. This board also may approve the legal documents (Articles of Incorporation, membership agreements, letters of intent, etc.) so that the cooperative can become a legal entity and recruit members.

When a sufficient number of members have joined the cooperative to ensure its viability, a membership meeting is held. At this first meeting, the bylaws are ratified and a regular board of directors is elected.

The role of other cooperatives and supporting organizations

One of the key cooperative principles is "cooperation with other cooperatives." Nearby cooperatives (electric, farm supply, dairy, food, etc.) can be sources of critical support to the housing co-op. If possible, arrange a meeting with the managers and the directors of local co-ops in the area, to outline potential plans for the housing co-op and suggest possible supporting efforts.

Support could include: regular publicity in the co-op newsletter, assistance from the co-op accountant and/or attorneys, referrals to local contacts in the business community, site ideas, and ongoing support for the co-op board.

In addition to area cooperatives, local organizations and agencies will play a critical role in the success of the cooperative. Staff at the senior center, the County Office on Aging, and local UW Extension offices can offer personal credibility and trusted relationships with potential members. It is important that such supporting organizations have a good understanding of the co-op concept, because they may be the most effective “marketers” for the co-op. They should be involved in the initial meetings with members, and be part of the informal support network for the co-op.

Other important local organizations include the city/village/town staff and elected officials, financial institutions, and the business community, including realtors. Again, it’s important that they have a good understanding of the cooperative concept, so that they can answer questions and assist with site development and financing. Ideally, they will give the co-op credibility through their public support.

State and regional organizations that are familiar with cooperative housing development are good sources of assistance throughout many steps of the project. A list of these resources is included in Appendix H.

Transitioning from construction to operation

The final step in setting up a senior housing cooperative is the most exciting one, in which the patience and work of the senior co-op members finally pays off.

The board of directors is now in charge of governing the housing cooperative, which is, in effect, an ongoing business.

The board is responsible for a variety of activities, including:

- Ensuring proper financial oversight of the cooperative and grounds and buildings.
- Hiring, supervising, and paying any external contractors for maintenance (including lawn care and snow shoveling) and repair.
- Keeping good financial records of the cooperative.
- Maintaining a good relationship with the community in which the co-op is located.
- Ensuring that all the co-op’s homes remain full by marketing available homes and by screening and approving potential new members.
- Handling member concerns or problems.
- Submitting annual reports as necessary to the State. The agent listed in the Articles of Incorporation will receive the forms.
- Holding regular board meetings.
- Keeping good minutes of board meetings and member meetings, documenting the details of decisions.

As board members gain experience and develop systems for handling these issues, the list of tasks will seem less overwhelming. If the cooperative has developed a good relationship with an area co-op, staff and board members will be an excellent source of advice.

There are organizations that offer training in board governance and on issues specific to housing cooperatives. These organizations are listed in Appendix H.

A HYBRID MODEL in ADAMS-FRIENDSHIP, WISCONSIN

This manual focuses on small-scale cooperatives with fewer than 20 residents. This model was pioneered by the “Homestead” cooperatives, which were built in sixteen rural communities in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri. Their sizes range from 16-31 units, in apartment/condo style buildings. In these co-ops, the cooperative corporation owns the land and the buildings, and residents own a share in the co-op that entitles them to live in one of the homes.

The model of co-op housing demonstrated in Adams-Friendship, Wisconsin, is another variation. These rural seniors knew they wanted unattached, separate homes. Some were initially uncomfortable with the idea of a co-op owning their home, but at the same time they thought it made sense to form a co-op that would own the land and manage the grounds.

In response to their wishes, a co-op model was developed that somewhat resembles a land trust. The cooperative members have a 99-year occupancy interest in their unattached homes. This interest is considered a conveyance under state law and recorded like a deed, but the cooperative owns the land and the improvements to the land. The limited equity model was used to limit appreciation in the value of the cooperatively owned land and dwellings.

Even experienced attorneys who often work with cooperatives may be unfamiliar with the details of this “new” approach to the ownership of housing co-ops. The documents included in this manual will help to clarify or guide the legal relationships.

Much of the information in this manual can be applied to a wide variety of housing co-op models, but some of the details, along with some of the language in the legal documents, are specific to the Adams-Friendship model and Wisconsin.

GOVERNANCE DECISIONS

Meetings with members

The local initiators of the development process will need to publicize the date and time of a public meeting to discuss the proposed housing cooperative. These local initiators may include staff or board members of a local co-op, the Office on Aging, or interested community members. The meeting should be held at an accessible location.

Several member meetings will be necessary to introduce residents to the cooperative concept and begin the decision-making process. Packets with pertinent information should be distributed at each meeting. All documents should be clearly written in a highly-legible font size (no smaller than 12 point). Finally, to reduce confusion, it is especially important that working documents are dated as changes are made. Details on these documents and meetings are included in the Development Manual for Small Rural Home Cooperatives.

It is vital that future members be involved continuously as decisions are made on key issues. This level of participation and discussion may mean that the overall process takes longer, but the resulting long-term involvement and commitment will create a stronger sense of community.

The types of meetings will vary, and rarely will a meeting cover only one agenda item. The following list is typical of the number and type of meetings needed to introduce potential members to the co-op concept and to involve them in crucial decisions.

- Four introductory meetings. These meetings will involve simple explanations of co-op concepts and a review of universal design standards for homes.
- Two meetings on possible sites.
- Three meetings to make preliminary decisions on sites, age limitations, design, and costs.
- Tours: A tour of a similar type of housing cooperative is highly recommended. If members are considering manufactured homes, a tour of a manufactured home factory is also beneficial. If this isn't feasible, watch a manufacturer's video about the process.
- Three meetings to make decisions on the co-op's legal documents.
- Two meetings on utilities and landscaping.
- Three meetings on the progress of construction.
- Two meetings to create and approve the annual budget.

Guidelines for creating legal documents

Since a cooperative is a corporation, a series of legal documents must be prepared whenever a cooperative is started. These documents will determine how the cooperative will function, and outline the rights and responsibilities of members. Members need to make a number of key decisions as the documents are being prepared.

These documents help to provide potential members with a clear idea of their rights and obligations before they commit to purchase a share in the cooperative. Each member should have a clear understanding of these documents before he/she signs a letter of intent or purchase agreement. When working with the potential co-op members, it is important to clarify how the various legal documents relate to each other.

The Articles of Incorporation create the cooperative corporation. In Wisconsin, they are filed with the Office of Financial Institutions. This website includes the forms, the statute that governs cooperatives, and instructions for filing: www.wisconsin.gov/state/byb/coopassociation.html.

The Bylaws outline how the cooperative will operate.

The Membership Certificate is the legal evidence of a member's share in the cooperative.

The Occupancy Agreement spells out the specifics of the right to exclusive occupancy of the home and the initial rules for all members of the cooperative.

The Occupancy Memo is a legal document that is signed and recorded like a deed.

Although much of the language in the legal documents is fairly standard, there are also some critical decisions that must be made by the members. Writing the documents offers a great opportunity to discuss the actual operations of the co-op with potential members. The process of drafting the cooperative documents can be made easier by using the following list of decisions. As decisions are made, they can be incorporated into the draft documents. Be sure to have an attorney who is knowledgeable in cooperative law review the documents before they are finalized. Sample documents are in the Appendix of this manual. Keep in mind that these documents conform to Wisconsin laws and were drafted specifically for the Adams-Friendship model.

Please note that after the cooperative is incorporated, it will need to obtain a Federal Identification Number in order to have a checking or savings account at a bank/credit union.

Information on obtaining a Federal ID Number is available through the Internet at: <http://www.irs.gov/businesses/small>

Articles of Incorporation: decisions to be made

These are the minimal decisions needed to incorporate in the State of Wisconsin.

- 1) Name of the cooperative.
- 2) Purpose of the cooperative.
- 3) Office address and/or agent. This can be an attorney, or a member of the local group that is initiating the cooperative. Official mail to the cooperative will be sent to this address, unless the Articles are amended with a change of address.
- 4) Number and value of shares of stock in the cooperative and rights to transfer stock. The number and value of shares may vary, depending on the cooperative.
- 5) Who is authorized to dissolve the assets of grant/cooperative funds if dissolution becomes necessary? If dissolution is necessary, how will the assets be distributed?
- 6) Can the articles be amended to change the basis for distribution of assets as described above?
- 7) Percent of co-op members needed to change incorporation documents. Please note that this item is optional, but recommended.
- 8) Names of five incorporators. (Note that the five incorporators of the cooperative do not have to be future members of the co-op. They are often members of the group initiating the co-op.)

Bylaws: decisions to be made

Bylaws are more extensive than the Articles, and involve many more decisions. The decisions should be made carefully, and it should be rather difficult to change them. In Wisconsin, Chapter 185 of the State Statutes provides guidance for many bylaw items. Also see the sample Bylaws in Appendix B for possible answers to many of the questions listed below.

Article I: Name and Location

Name and location of the cooperative. This should be consistent with the Articles of Incorporation.

Article II: Purpose

Purpose of the cooperative. This should also be consistent with the Articles of Incorporation.

Article III: Interpretive Provisions

Definitions of terms in the Bylaws and other Governing Documents. See an example in the sample Bylaws.

Article IV: Members

- 1) What will be the age limitation for eligible buyers of cooperative membership?
Note that the bylaws should include a section on compliance with applicable Fair Housing Laws.
- 2) How will the co-op handle joint membership? How will the co-op handle membership of descendents?
- 3) What will be covered by the co-op fee?
- 4) What is the sale process? What rules will govern equity increases?
- 5) How will the co-op handle temporary absences from the co-op?
- 6) What is the process of termination or transfer of ownership?

Article V: Meetings for Members

- 7) When will the annual meeting be held?
- 8) How many members must be present to constitute a quorum?

Article VI: Directors

- 9) What is the size of the board? (Note: In a small co-op, it may be advantageous to have a board position for all or for nearly every member, while allowing for some flexibility in the size of the board.)
- 10) What are the requirements for an audit review of the finances?

11) What are the limits on the board's borrowing authority?

12) How many years should directors serve on the board?

Article VII: Meetings of Directors

13) What are the notice requirements for meetings of the directors?

14) What will constitute a quorum for board meetings?

Article VIII: Officers

15) How many officers of the co-op are required?

16) What are the instructions regarding hiring a manager?

17) Who may be bonded by the co-op, and at whose expense?

Article IX: Contracts, Checks, Deposits

18) Who is authorized to act as an agent for the cooperative? This should be consistent with the Articles of Incorporation.

Article X: Liens and Encumbered Occupancy Interests

19) What are the requirements concerning liens for assessments by the cooperative and liens against occupancy interests by members?

Article XI: Additions, Alterations, and Improvements

20) What is the approval process for alterations, repairs, or improvements?

Article XII: Insurance and Damage Reconstruction

21) What insurance is required? This should be discussed with local insurance agents as they may not be familiar with cooperatives or the hybrid model described in this manual.

Article XIII: Waiver of Notice

22) Will members and directors be allowed to waive, in writing, notice of meetings required to be given in the Bylaws?

Article XIV: Fiscal Year

23) What is to be the cooperative's fiscal year?

Article XV: Seal

24) Is a seal needed?

Article XVI: Liability and Indemnification

25) What are the limits to liability for the cooperative?

Article XVII: Repeal or Amendments of Bylaws

26) How do members change, amend, or repeal the Bylaws?

Letter of Intent: decisions to be made

During the development process, a person or couple needs to submit a letter of intent in order to become a member of the cooperative. This document is submitted to the temporary board of directors. After the cooperative has been formed, a transfer process will be in place for changes of ownership.

The letter of intent is similar to an offer to purchase, and should be taken very seriously. The letter of intent outlines conditions that must be met on both sides in order for the offer to be finalized.

Although the required earnest money may be minimal, both sides assume that the intent to move forward toward purchase of a cooperative home is sincere. The co-op is taking a risk by saving a space for the person, and the person is taking a risk by making plans to move into a new home before their current home is sold (or vice versa).

A sample letter of intent is included in Appendix C. The group needs to make one important decision when preparing the letter: if a member defaults on the agreement, will the cooperative return the earnest money? Or perhaps the co-op will extend the timeline? The co-op is not required to return the earnest money. The costs and risks associated with default should be examined carefully before a decision is made.

Notwithstanding this provision, joint Members may contract to provide compensation for such automatic transfer of membership.

Pursuant to any waiver, the Member may sell his or her membership to any applicant who qualifies and has been duly approved as a Member of the Cooperative. The Cooperative may assist the Member in finding a purchaser. When the prospective new Member has been approved by the Board of Directors, and has executed an Occupancy Agreement, the retiring Member shall be released of his or her obligations provided he or she has paid all amounts due to the Cooperative to date, including any administrative transfer fees, and any costs to repair, replace or redecorate the retiring Member's Private Dwelling, as deemed reasonably necessary by the Board.

This is a Limited Equity Cooperative not meant for speculation. The Transfer Value is not a guaranteed price for an Occupancy Interest, but a ceiling price that may be charged to a willing Eligible Buyer. (See Appendix G of the Bylaws for the Transfer Value formula and example.)

Section 4.7 Temporary Absence. If a Member is not occupying the Private Dwelling, the Member is required to make arrangements for the payment of monthly fees and utilities in their absence. Notification of meetings and voting at Board Meetings may be conducted in writing using regular mail during the Member's absence (See Section 5.6).

Section 4.8 Termination for Cause. Violations of any Governing Documents may warrant termination for cause. An equitable procedure for termination as adopted by the Board of Directors shall be used to determine if termination for cause is warranted in each specific incidence. Upon membership termination, the Member shall be required to deliver its Share, Membership Certificate, Occupancy Agreement, and any other documents relating to membership to the Cooperative President. Any legal and other expenses incurred by the Cooperative in connection with the default or termination of Membership and the resale of the Cooperative Interest will be deducted from the Member's Transfer Value. If after a period of one hundred and twenty (120) days the terminated Member has not complied with the requirements herein, the Share, Membership Certificate and Occupancy Agreement may be reissued by the Cooperative to a new Member.

(B) If the Board of Directors makes available ballots for the vote on the motion with exact copies of the motion and any resolution to which it pertains to any Member, but does not comply fully with the requirements of Section 5.6(A), an absent member may vote on the motion by submitting a signed ballot. However, the motion and resolution to which it pertains may be amended at the meeting, and, if the motion or resolution is amended, the ballot is void. (C) Members may vote on the election or removal of Directors by signed ballot.

Section 5.7 Order of Business. The order of business at Annual and other meetings of the Members shall be as set by the Board of Directors, unless modified by the affirmative vote of at least a majority of the Members present. All other procedural matters at meetings of the Members shall be governed by the latest edition of Roberts Rules of Order Newly Revised.

Section 5.8 Action by Members Without A Meeting. Any action required or permitted to be taken at a meeting of the Members may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, is signed by all of the Members entitled to vote with respect to the subject matter thereof. Such consent shall have the same force and effect as a unanimous vote of the Members and shall be filed with the minutes of the proceedings of the Members. Neither the Cooperative, nor any Officer(s) shall be liable for failure to obtain any coverages required by this Article if such failure is due to the unavailability of such coverages from reputable insurance companies, or if such coverages are so available only at demonstrably unreasonable cost. Under such a scenario, the Board of Director will explore Cooperative self-insurance. The Secretary/Treasurer shall promptly furnish to each Member written notice of the procurement, subsequent changes in, and the termination of all insurance coverage obtained on behalf of the Cooperative.

(B) Each such policy shall provide, to the extent available at reasonable rates, that:

(1) the insurer waives any right to claim by way of subrogation against the Cooperative, the Officers, the Members, and their respective agents, employees and invitees, and, in the case of the Members, their households;

(2) such policy shall not be cancelled, invalidated or suspended due to the conduct of any Officer(s), Member(s), or any invitee, agent, officer, or employee of any of the foregoing without a prior demand in writing to the Board of Directors that the defect be cured, followed by failure to so cure the defect within sixty (60) days after such demand; and

(3) such policy shall not be cancelled or substantially modified for any reason (including nonpayment of premium) without at least sixty (60) days prior written notice to the Board of Directors.

(1) a waiver of any right of the insurer to repair, rebuild or replace any damage or destruction if a decision is made pursuant to Section 12.12 not to do so and, in such event, that the insurer shall pay on the basis of the agreed amount endorsement;

(2) the following endorsements (or equivalent): (i) “no control” (to the effect that coverage shall not be prejudiced by any act or neglect of any Member, occupant, or other Person if such act or neglect is not within the control of the insured, nor by any failure of the insured or any other Person to comply with any warranty or condition concerning any portion of the Private Dwellings not controlled by the insured); (ii) “contingent liability from operation of building laws or codes”; (iii) “increased cost of construction” or “cooperative replacement cost”; and (iv) “agreed amount” or limitation of co-insurance clause;

(3) that any “no other insurance” clause excludes individual Members’ policies from its operation so that the physical damage policy purchased on behalf of the Cooperative shall be deemed primary coverage and any individual Members’ policies shall be deemed excess coverage, and in no event shall the insurance coverage obtained and maintained on behalf of the Cooperative hereunder be brought into contribution with insurance purchased by individual Members or their Mortgagees unless otherwise required by law; and

(4) that a duplicate original of such policy, all renewals thereof, and any sub-policies or certificates and endorsements issued there under, together with proof of payment of premiums, shall be delivered by the insurer to any Mortgagee whose request therefore is received by the insurer at least thirty (30) days prior to expiration of the then current policy.

Officer, and each Member against any liability to the public or to the Members (and their invitees, agents employees and members of their households) arising out of or incident to the ownership and/or use of the Common Elements, Private Dwellings, or Improvements. Such insurance shall be issued on a comprehensive liability basis and shall contain: (i) a cross liability endorsement under which the rights of a named insured shall not be prejudiced with respect to his action against another named insured; and (ii) hired and non-owned vehicle coverage.

The Board shall review such limits once a year, but in no events shall such insurance be less than One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) covering all claims for bodily injury or property damage arising out of one occurrence.

This will also include, without limitation, coverage of all Officers when acting in role of Officers, against libel, slander, false arrest, invasion of privacy, and errors and omissions.

(B) Flood Insurance. If required by any governmental or quasigovernmental agency, flood insurance shall be obtained in accordance with the then applicable regulation of such agency.

Each Member shall be required, at his or her own expense, to obtain insurance for his own personal property contained in the Private Dwelling and Improvements under coverage normally called “tenant’s improvements and betterments coverage”, and for his own benefit, including insurance coverage for his personal liability. No Member shall acquire or maintain insurance coverage, however, so as to decrease the amount, which the Cooperative may realize under any insurance policy, or to cause any insurance coverage in favor of the Cooperative to be brought into contribution with insurance coverage obtained by a Member. All policies obtained by Member individually shall contain waivers of subrogation. No Member shall obtain separate insurance of the Private Dwelling or Improvements except as provided in this section.

Section 12.6 Insurance Proceeds Held in Trust. All physical damage insurance policies purchased by or on behalf of the Cooperative shall be for the benefit of the Cooperative and the Members, as their respective interests may appear, and shall provide that all proceeds of such policies shall be paid in trust to the Board to be applied pursuant to the terms of this Article.

Section 12.7. Board of Directors as Agent. The Board of Directors is hereby irrevocably constituted as agent for the Cooperative, each Member, other named insureds and their beneficiaries, and any other holder of a lien or other interest in the Private Dwelling, to adjust and settle all claims arising under insurance policies purchased by the Board and to execute and deliver releases upon the payment of claims. As Agent, the Board shall appoint on a yearly basis one Officer the responsibility for procurement and monitoring of insurance coverage.

In addition, as required under Section 4.1(C), each Member is responsible for the full cost of physical damage and liability insurance corresponding to the Private Dwelling occupied by the Member, and shall reimburse the Cooperative for that premium. Each Member is responsible for all deductibles corresponding to insurance for the Private Dwelling and any Separate Insurance by Members. The Cooperative shall be responsible for all deductibles corresponding to general liability insurance and other general Cooperative insurance. The Cooperative may collect this deductible from Members on a prorated basis as part of the Cooperative Fee.

Section 12.9 When Repair and Reconstruction are Required. Except as otherwise provided in Section 12.12, in the event of damage to the Private Dwellings as a result of a casualty, the Board shall arrange for and supervise the prompt repair and restoration thereof, including any damaged Private Dwellings and authorized Improvements but not including anything installed in any Private Dwelling by any Member. Any such repair and restoration shall be substantially in accordance with the original construction and installation, subject to any modifications required by changes in applicable laws, ordinances, and other governmental regulations, and using to the extent feasible such contemporary materials and technology as may then be available. Notwithstanding the foregoing, each Member shall have the right to supervise the redecoration of his own Private Dwelling.

Section 12.10 Cost Estimates. Section 12.12 When Repair or Reconstruction Is Not Required. If the Board of Directors resolves not to repair insubstantial damage to the Common Elements, the Board of Directors shall cause to be removed all debris, with the site of the damage restored to a condition compatible to the extent feasible with the remainder of the Building, and the balance of any insurance proceeds received on account of such damage shall be credited to all Members in equal proportion against their respective liabilities for assessments then due or thereafter becoming due.

Offer to Purchase a Cooperative Interest

As a Member of _____

RE: Offer to Purchase a Cooperative Interest

I am pleased to present this letter of intent to the Incorporators of the _____, which sets forth, in general, the substantive terms and conditions under which I would become a Member of the _____. I understand that this Cooperative has been formed for purposes of providing affordable land for the primary purpose of providing the opportunity to establish rural residential homes (“Private Dwellings”) for its senior Members within which its Members may age in place in ____ County, _____. I understand that ____ single-family residential Private Dwellings may be built on the land provided by the Cooperative. I have received, reviewed and understand the terms of the Articles of Incorporation, Bylaws, and Occupancy Agreement each containing rules and regulations to which I must abide as a Member. I understand the terms outlined in this letter as merely a summary of conditions that I must follow when I become a Member.

I further understand that this Cooperative is established as a limited equity model, which provides benefits to me, as well as to future Cooperative Members. In due consideration for the limited equity possible upon transfer of my Occupancy Interest, I understand that I have received the exclusive use of an affordable home, membership in a Cooperative which may furnish support services, and the benefit of Affordable Housing Grant funds.

1. Membership and Occupancy.

Subject to the conditions set forth below, the undersigned intend(s) to become a Member of _____. It is my understanding that a total of _____ memberships will be issued by the Cooperative and more than one person may hold each membership. It is my understanding that there shall be no more than _____ voting Members in the Cooperative, as each voting Member will correspondingly relate to each Private Dwelling on the Cooperative’s property. I understand that, subject to certain exceptions, membership in the Cooperative is limited to persons _____ years of age or older with qualifying incomes as outlined in the Bylaws (see definition of “Eligible Buyer”), because it is the intent of the Cooperative to provide for a location (land) for affordable housing for the aging.

It is my understanding that membership status is granted upon purchase of a Certificate of Membership in the Cooperative. I further understand that the right to exclusive occupation of a Private Dwelling is granted upon the purchase of an Occupancy Agreement. Lastly, I understand that my right to vote in the Cooperative is granted upon purchase of a Cooperative Share. Collectively, these three components make up my Cooperative Interest.

Share	Total Cost $1 - par value	Grant Funds	My Cost
(A) Membership interest: Land
(B) Membership interest: alterations to common elements (excavations, driveways, fill, landscaping, etc.)
Total membership interest
Occupancy interest

Part of the cost of the Common Elements and my Private Dwelling will be covered by the Affordable Housing Program (AHP) grant. It is my understanding that this subsidy to my total costs is _____.

I understand that the value of my Membership Interest in the Cooperative shall be _____% of the purchase price of $_____ (equal to _____) for the land located at _____. In addition to the land, the necessary landscaping, utility hookups driveways and walkways (hereinafter "Common Elements") are provided by the AHP grant funds for a value of approximately $_____. I understand that the value of my Occupancy Interest is the Initial Acquisition Price, as described below, and that the grant funds apportioned to this interest are $_____.

I understand that the entire AHP Grant Value of my Cooperative Interest will be passed on to the next resident of my Private Dwelling. If I was to sell any of my Cooperative Interest to anyone other than an Eligible Buyer, prior to five years after the date I enter into my Occupancy Agreement, in violation of the Governing Documents of the Cooperative, I understand that I will have to pay a penalty.¹ The penalty shall be repaid to the funder from any net gain realized upon the sale of the Cooperative Interest and transfer of occupancy of the Private Dwelling after deduction of sales expenses.

¹That penalty will be an amount equal to a pro-rata share of the direct subsidy, reduced for every year that I occupied the Private Dwelling (this is an amount equal to _____% of the amount of the total Grant of $_____ representing $_____ for each Cooperative Interest reduced by 1/60th for each month from the date of such first purchase).

I further understand that the increased equity I can potentially gain from the sale of my Occupancy Interest is limited by a Transfer Value formula based upon the consideration I have received from the Cooperative model and from the benefit of AHP grant funds. I also understand that the Cooperative is not guaranteeing a Transfer Value, rather the price I may charge is limited, and I must find a willing buyer to purchase my Occupancy Interest for a mutually agreed upon price not to exceed the Transfer Value. I understand the Transfer Value to work as follows:

Transfer Value Formula

Initial Acquisition Price (IAP)

- + Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for ____ years
(# of years I occupied the private dwelling)
- + Net value of improvements
- = Highest price I may charge for my occupancy interest

This formula does not include the grant value of $8,850, which was used to pay for the initial building costs exclusive of the IAP.

Example of the Transfer Value Formula

Jane purchases her Occupancy Interest for the initial acquisition price of $75,000, lives in the Private Dwelling for 10 years, and adds a Cooperative-approved toolshed, with a net improvement value of $500 (even though it cost $900 to build).

Inputting the numbers into the formula:

- $75,000.00 Initial acquisition price
- + 7,846.66 Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for 10 years
- + 500.00 Net value of improvements
- = $83,346.66 Highest price Jane may charge for her occupancy interest

I understand that I must be below the income guidelines of the AHP grant and that every new resident within the first five years must also meet that guideline as defined by "Eligible Buyer" in the Bylaws.

I understand that I will have assigned to me a building Site. I understand that I may convey my preference as to which Site that I would prefer, but I understand that the Cooperative will ultimately determine the Site selection. I further understand that all Private Dwellings on the Cooperative property shall conform to certain restrictions of the attached universal design, which have been established by the Cooperative. It is my understanding that the intent of the Cooperative is to have _____ other memberships granted and that it is the intent of the Cooperative that each Member have the same obligations as me by building a Private Dwelling on one of the Sites located on the Cooperative property, subject to the restrictions as established by the Cooperative.

1. Development of Property.

The undersigned agrees to develop one of ____ sites by constructing a Private Dwelling on a site in conjunction with the Cooperative. If appropriate, I intend to work with a builder to build my Private Dwelling at or around the same time that other Members of the Cooperative are building their homes so that the construction is more convenient and affordable. I understand that the Cooperative will retain fee simple ownership of this Private Dwelling but that as a Member entering into an Occupancy Agreement, I will obtain exclusive occupancy rights for a term of 99 years, as specified in the Occupancy Agreement.

2. Purchase Price, Payment, Evidence, and Future Sale for Share, Membership, and Occupancy Interests.

A. Share Price.

The purchase price of the Share in the Cooperative is $1.00. Purchase of this Share entitles me to vote in the Cooperative. I will receive a Stock Certificate as proof of this purchase.

B. Membership Interest Price.

The purchase price for the Membership Interest is divided into two portions. The portion related to the land is intended to be approximately ____% of the common costs for the land, which is $_____ minus the AHP grant that I may receive which is allocated to the land. The total cost is $_____. The AHP grant will provide $_____. I will provide $____. I will receive a Membership Certificate as proof of this purchase.

The Purchase Price would be ($_____), payable in cash at the time this Letter of Intent is executed by the Undersigned.

The Membership Interest related to the alterations to the land, such as excavation and the driveway cost $_____, all of which is covered by Grant funds.

C. Occupancy Interest Price.

The purchase price for the Occupancy Interest shall be the Initial Acquisition Price (IAP) as defined in the Bylaws. I understand that the Grant will provide $_____ to pay the builder, making my IAP the total building cost minus the grant.

Within ____ business days the following two items will be provided to an Officer of the Cooperative:

- (1) Evidence of interim or long term financing which may include the sale of existing property, evidenced by a contract with a realtor; and

- (2) Evidence of a contract with a builder incorporating the 15 elements of universal design.

I will receive an Occupancy Agreement as proof of this purchase at the time that I take physical possession of my completed Private Dwelling. It will outline rights and responsibilities in addition to the Bylaws and other Cooperative Governing Documents.

B. Closing date for Sale of Occupancy Agreement.

The Closing, which will provide me with access to my exclusive Private Dwelling, is intended to be before _____ [insert date]. The Cooperative land was purchased on _____ [insert date]. The “Closing Date” or “Closing” may be extended by the mutual agreement of the intended Member and the Cooperative.

C. Future Sale.

I understand I will be able to sell my Occupancy Interest with a limitation of no greater than a 1% increase in value, compounded per annum, based on my initial investment for each year thereafter (as illustrated in the Transfer Value Formula on page 3). The Cooperative is not guaranteeing that I will receive this increased equity; rather as a Cooperative Member, I understand I may sell my Occupancy Interest to an Eligible Buyer for no more than the ceiling price provided. The actual price will be determined by negotiations between a willing buyer and myself.

All AHP subsidies will stay with the Cooperative.

The net value of any authorized Additions, Alterations, or Improvements as determined by a certified Appraiser will be included in the sales price pursuant to Bylaw Section 11.2.

Sale of the Occupancy Interest shall be to an Eligible Buyer, as defined in the Bylaws.

This letter of intent will expire at _____ unless a fully executed acceptance is received by that time.

Very truly yours,

(Signatures)

THIS AGREEMENT is made and entered into on this _____ day of _____, by and between _____ Cooperative of _____, _____ County, Wisconsin (hereinafter referred to as the “Cooperative”), a _____ cooperative association having its principal office and place of business at _____ and _____ [insert Member’s name(s)], (hereinafter referred to as “Member”) who will be residing in the Private Dwelling located at _____.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Cooperative has been formed for Eligible Buyers as defined in § 3.1 of the Cooperative Bylaws for the purpose of acquiring, owning, and operating a cooperative housing project (hereinafter referred to as the “Property”), to be located at _____, with the intent that each Member shall have the right to occupy an exclusive Private Dwelling and occupy the collectively-owned land thereof under the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of the Cooperative is to furnish its Members with affordable land and, for exclusive use, Private Dwellings and Improvements within which it’s Members may age in place. The purpose is also to maintain ongoing affordability through the use of a limited equity model so that future Cooperative Members will benefit from this purpose as well. The increase in equity is limited based upon valuable consideration granted to each Member; the Cooperative provides each Member with the exclusive use of an affordable home, possible support services, and the benefit of grant funds in exchange for limitations on the future sales price of the Occupancy Interest.

The Cooperative may also furnish other Membership support services, and engage in any activity within the purposes for which Cooperatives may be organized under Wisconsin law, and all such activities shall be deemed within purposes, subject to express limitations as any be imposed under these Bylaws. The Cooperative shall at all times be operated on a cooperative, non-profit basis for the mutual benefit of its Members; and

WHEREAS, the Member is, or simultaneously with the execution hereof, shall become, an owner and holder of a Certificate of Membership of the Cooperative (hereinafter “Membership Certificate”) and an owner and holder of a Share in the Cooperative, and shall cause a Memorandum of Occupancy Agreement, in order to produce notice of the rights and responsibilities related to the Member’s Occupancy Interest as outlined in this Occupancy Agreement.

WHEREAS, the Member must adhere to the _____ Cooperative Bylaws (“Bylaws”) and all Governing Documents. The Bylaws provide definitions applicable to this Agreement.

WHEREAS, in consideration of the exclusive right to occupy a Private Dwelling, the undersigned shall pay the Initial Acquisition Price (IAP) to the builder, if this is the first sale of the Private Dwelling, or the Transfer Value to the Cooperative, for any subsequent sale, pursuant to the Bylaws (both of which equal the Initial Consideration). The Member further recognizes that the future sales price will be based upon his or her Initial Consideration of $_____. (An explanation of the Transfer Value formula is provided in Appendix A attached hereto and should be incorporated as part of this Agreement.)

WHEREAS, the Member has a bona fide intention to reside in the Dwelling on Site _____.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises contained herein, the Cooperative hereby grants to the Member and the Member hereby acquires from the Cooperative, except as hereafter provided, an Occupancy Interest, which provides exclusive occupancy to a Private Dwelling and Improvement located on Site _____, with a Parcel Identification Number _____, as shown on the Plat of Survey as attached hereto as Appendix B.

Said use is limited to occupancy by the Member (except as may otherwise be permitted in accordance with the provision of the Bylaws or House Rules and Regulations), which includes the right to use of the Improvements which are allocated exclusively to the Member assigned to the Private Dwelling on the Site specified above, and which includes the right to the use of the personal property in the Dwelling on the date hereof, for a term commencing on [insert date], terminating and lasting for 99 years and renewable under the terms and conditions provided herein, unless terminated by death, expulsion, withdrawal, or any other means.

Under the terms of the Occupancy Agreement:

1. Occupancy of Private Dwelling and Improvements on Site by Member. Member has exclusive occupancy rights to the Private Dwelling and Improvements located on Site _____.

2. Duties Regarding Upkeep and Management.

(A) Cooperative Duties. The Cooperative shall: (i) provide necessary management and administration of the Cooperative; (ii) provide for the payment of all taxes and assessments levied against the Cooperative; (iii) procure and provide for the payment of fire and extended coverage and public liability insurance and provide purchase of such other insurance or self-insurance, coverage and protection as the Board may deem advisable, including insurance on the Private Dwelling, but such insurance or self-insurance shall NOT cover Member's personal property, including alterations, betterments in, on, or appurtenant to the premises, nor does it cover personal liability; (iv) set up reserves to cover contingencies, repurchases, and future costs of replacements; and (v) subject to different provisions that may be contained in the rules from time to time, pay for all current repairs, maintenance and replacements on the items provided by the Cooperative, as outlined in the General Maintenance Program below.

(B) Member Duties. Water, sewer, electricity, gas, telephone, cable TV, satellite TV, and any other utility charges will be individually metered and billed, and the Member shall be solely responsible for and pay for these charges directly to the appropriate utility companies. Property taxes for the Private Dwelling will be individually billed and the Member shall be responsible for and pay for these taxes directly without delinquency.

3. Maintenance and Repairs.

(A) General Maintenance Program. The Cooperative shall have the exclusive authority to direct from time to time the manner of maintaining, repairing, and replacing Common Elements and the equipment in the Common Elements owned by the Cooperative. The expense of making all repairs or taking any other action by negligence of Member or of persons occupying or visiting in the premises shall be paid entirely by Member.

(B) Member Maintenance Responsibilities. Member agrees to repair and maintain Member's Private Dwelling at his or her own expense as follows: all exterior, interior repairs, replacements, and upkeep of whatever kind or nature. Based upon the limited equity purpose of the Cooperative, additions, alterations, and improvements to major systems or external features must be approved by the Cooperative and are governed by Bylaw Article XI.

4. Sale of Occupancy Interest to Eligible Buyers. Upon receipt of notice of intent to sell from a member, the Cooperative has the Right of First Option to Purchase pursuant to Bylaw Section 4.6(F). Despite this option, or in the event that the Cooperative does not exercise its option for any reason, it is the Member's responsibility to find an Eligible Buyer for the Occupancy Agreement.

5. Sale is Limited to an Eligible Buyer. The Cooperative shall evaluate all interested buyers for the Private Dwelling Improvements and select an Eligible Buyer, as defined in Sections 3.1 of Bylaws which states:

Eligible Buyer means a person who is aged 55 years or older at the time of application.

An Eligible Buyer must also meet the following criteria as outlined in Section 4.2 of the Bylaws:

(A) Membership shall be limited to an Eligible Buyer, which includes persons aged 55 years or older at the time of application with qualifying incomes.

(B) No person may own more than one (1) Membership in the Cooperative.

(C) A husband and wife or any two adults may jointly apply for Membership and their application for a joint Membership may be accepted in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this section which provides:

(1) either the husband or wife, or one of the two adults satisfies the age requirements of Section 4.2 (A); and

(2) both the husband and wife, or in the case of two adults, both adults, comply jointly with the income provisions of Section 4.2(A) regarding household income.

6. Limited Equity; Transfer Value Price. Consistent with the limited equity purpose of the Cooperative in accordance with Section 2.1 of the Bylaws, the Transfer Value price of the Occupancy Interest shall be calculated in accordance with Section 4.6 (I) of Bylaws:

Transfer Value of Occupancy Interest for a Private Dwelling. Whenever an Occupancy Interest is transferred, the value of the interest in the Private Dwelling is equal to the Initial Consideration paid by the Member at the time of initial acquisition plus the net value of any Cooperative-approved improvements (see Section 11.2), plus an amount no greater than 1% of the Initial Consideration paid, with such percent compounded per annum. This is a limited equity Cooperative not meant for speculation. The Transfer Value is not a guaranteed price for an Occupancy Interest, but a ceiling price that may be charged to a willing Eligible Buyer. (See Appendix A for the Transfer Value Formula and example.)

Neither this agreement nor Member's right of occupancy shall be transferable or assignable except as provided by Section 4.6 of the Bylaws for the transfer of membership.

7. Lien Rights in Occupancy Interest. Upon purchase of an Occupancy Interest, each member may borrow against that interest pursuant to Bylaws Sections 10.2 and 6.2(L). The Cooperative reserves all rights under Section 4.8 Termination for Cause of the Bylaws, to terminate a Membership for failure to meet obligations related to any liens.

8. Renewal. It is agreed that the term of occupancy shall be renewed for one additional period of 99-years from the expiration of the initial term. Such renewals shall be based upon the same terms as contained in this agreement.

9. Termination/Effect of Termination. This agreement will terminate according to and subject to Sections 4.6 and 4.8 of the Bylaws. All of the Member's rights and interest in the use of the Private Dwelling shall terminate immediately when this agreement terminates.

10. Reservation of Mineral Rights. The Cooperative reserves to itself all the minerals and other extractive resources. The Cooperative shall not extract any resources from the land during the term of the Occupancy Agreement.

11. Subordination. This agreement and all rights, privileges, and benefits hereunder shall at all times be subject and subordinate to any lien of any mortgage, deed of trust, chattel mortgage, note or other instrument made by the Cooperative or on the property of the Cooperative in existence at the time of this contract or hereinafter created. Member hereby agrees to execute, at the Cooperative's request and expense, any instrument, which the Cooperative or any lender or mortgagee may deem necessary or desirable to subordinate this agreement to any such security instrument. Member hereby appoints the Cooperative and each and every Officer thereof, and any future Officer, as irrevocable attorney-in-fact during the term of the agreement to execute any such instrument on behalf of Member.

12. Severability. The provisions of this agreement are severable and in the event any provision of the agreement conflicts with the Bylaws, applicable law, or is found to be invalid, such conflict or invalidity shall not affect the other provisions of this agreement.

I HAVE READ AND HEREBY ACKNOWLEDGE THE FOREGOING. I UNDERSTAND THAT THIS IS A LIMITED EQUITY COOPERATIVE SUBJECT TO RESALE RESTRICTIONS AND THAT I WILL BE SUBJECT TO FINANCIAL PENALTIES IF I SELL THE COOPERATIVE INTEREST TO A NON-QUALIFIED BUYER WITHIN FIVE YEARS OF THE DATE OF THIS AGREEMENT.

APPENDIX F

Memorandum of Occupancy Agreement

Document Number _____

MEMORANDUM OF OCCUPANCY AGREEMENT

THIS MEMORANDUM OF Occupancy Agreement entered into this _____ [insert day] day of _____ [insert year], by and between _____ (hereinafter referred to as the “Cooperative”), having an address of _____ [insert address]; and _____ [insert name] (“Member”), having an address of _____ [insert unit] _____ [insert city, county, state] (hereinafter referred to as “Site”).

The Cooperative is a limited equity senior housing cooperative whose purpose, as outlined in Section 2.1 of the Cooperative’s Bylaws, a copy of which can be obtained by contacting the Cooperative, is to maintain ongoing affordability for Members and qualifying future Members and to limit ownership to qualifying seniors as outlined below. For this reason, the Transfer Value of each Occupancy Interest providing exclusive right to a Private Dwelling is limited. This increase in equity is limited based upon due consideration granted to each member with the exclusive use of an affordable home, possible support services, and the benefit of Affordable Housing Grant funds in exchange for limitations on the future sales price of the Occupancy Interest.

Member, having purchased a Share and a Membership Certificate on [insert date] entered into an Occupancy Agreement dated _____ [insert date] (“Agreement”), whereby the cooperative grants to Member and Occupancy Interest for the Initial Acquisition Price of $_____, which includes the right to occupy a Private Dwelling, including any buildings, structures, fixtures and other improvements (“Improvements”) located on site ___ upon land owned by the Cooperative in the Village/Township/City of _____, _____ County, Wisconsin (as shown on the Plat of Survey as attached hereto as Appendix B*).

This occupancy interest is for a ninety-nine (99) year term commencing on [insert date]. This occupancy term is subject to Member’s option to renew for one (1) additional period of ninety-nine (99) years. The land, which is legally described below (“Common Elements”), includes all appurtenances, easements and privileges belonging thereto but exclusive of the five Sites and the buildings, structures, fixtures and other improvements located on each Site as documented in Appendix B [insert legal description].

Name and Return Address:

[Add new TAX ID number]

Parcel Identification Number(s)

Under the terms of the Occupancy Agreement:

Occupancy of Private Dwellings and improvements on Site by Member. Member has exclusive occupancy rights to the Private Dwelling and Improvements located on Site ____.

2. Duties regarding Upkeep and Management.

(a) Cooperative Duties. The Cooperative shall: (i) provide necessary management and administration of the Cooperative; (ii) provide for the payment of all taxes and assessments levied against the cooperative; (iii) procure and provide for the payment of insurance as outlined in the Occupancy Agreement and the Bylaws; (iv) set up reserves; and (v) pay for all current repairs, maintenance and replacement on the items provided by the Cooperative, as outlined in the General Maintenance Program below.

(b) Member Duties. Members must pay for all utilities, water and sewer charges, and property taxes for the Private Dwelling.

3. Maintenance and Repairs.

(a) General Maintenance Program. The Cooperative shall maintain the Common Elements except for the expense of making all repairs or taking any other action by negligence of member or of persons occupying or visiting in the premises shall be paid entirely by member.

(b) Member Maintenance Responsibilities. Member agrees to repair and maintain member's Private Dwelling at his or her own expense as follows: all exterior, interior repairs, replacements, and upkeep of whatever kind or nature. Based upon the limited equity purpose of the Cooperative, Additions, Alterations, and Improvements to major systems or external features must be approved by the Cooperative and are governed by Bylaw Article XI.

4. Sale of Occupancy Interest to Eligible Buyers. Upon receipt of notice of intent to sell from a Member, the cooperative has the right of first Option to Purchase pursuant to Bylaw Section 4.6(F). It is the Member's responsibility to find an Eligible Buyer for the Occupancy Interest.

5. Sale is Limited to an Eligible Buyer. The Cooperative shall evaluate all interested buyers for the Private Dwelling Improvements and select an Eligible Buyer, as defined in Section 3.1 of Bylaws:

Eligible Buyer means a person who is age 55 years or older at the time of application with a household whose annual income is either 80% (moderate) or 60% (low) or less of the area median income (AMI) for _____ [location], as determined by the US. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Whether an Occupancy Interest must be sold to a buyer whose income is 80% or 60% AMI or less will be determined by the Board of Directors at the time of sale so that the Cooperative is in compliance with the Affordable Housing Program Loan which requires four of the Private Dwellings to be affordable to households earning 60% AMI until such time as all the Occupancy Agreements have been sold to the first buyer, at which time this specific requirement is eliminated.

An Eligible Buyer must also meet the criteria outlined in Section 4.2 of the Bylaws.

6. Limited Equity; Transfer Value Price. Consistent with the limited equity purpose of the cooperative in accordance with Section 2.1 of the Bylaws, the Transfer Value price of the Occupancy Interest shall be calculated in accordance with Section 4.6(1) of Bylaws:

Transfer Value of Occupancy Interest for a Private Dwelling. Whenever an Occupancy Interest is transferred, the value is equal to the Initial Consideration paid by the Member at the time of initial acquisition plus the net value of any cooperative-approved improvements (See Section 11.2), plus an amount no greater than 1% of the Initial consideration paid, with such percent compounded per annum. This is a limited equity Cooperative not meant for speculation. Any grant funds allocated to the Private Dwelling remain the property of the Cooperative, and are not included in the Initial Consideration or the Transfer Value Formula. The Transfer Value is not a guaranteed price for an Occupancy Interest, but a ceiling price that may be charged to a willing Eligible Buyer. (See Appendix A for the Transfer Value Formula and examples.)*

Neither this agreement nor Member's right of occupancy shall be transferable or assignable except as provided by Section 4.6 of the Bylaws for the transfer of Membership.

7. Lien Rights in Occupancy Interest. Upon purchase of an Occupancy Interest, each member may borrow against that interest pursuant to Bylaws Sections 10.2 and 6.2(L). The Cooperative reserves all rights under Section 4.8 Termination for Cause of the Bylaws, to terminate Membership for failure to meet obligations related to any liens.

8. Renewal. It is agreed that the term of occupancy shall be renewed for one additional period of 99 years from the expiration of the initial term. Such renewals shall be based upon the same terms as contained in this agreement.

9. Termination/Effect of Termination. This agreement will terminate according to and subject to Section 4.6 and Section 4.8 of the Bylaws. All of Member's rights and interest in the use of the Private Dwelling shall terminate immediately when this agreement terminates.

10. Reservation of Mineral Rights. Cooperative reserves to itself all the minerals and other extractive resources. Cooperatives shall not extract any resources from the land during the term of the Occupancy Agreement.

11. Subordination. This agreement and all rights, privileges, and benefits hereunder shall at all times be subject and subordinate to any lien of any mortgage, deed of trust, chattel mortgage, note or other instrument made by the Cooperative or on the property of the cooperative in existence at the time of this contract or hereinafter created.

12. Severability. The provisions of this agreement are severable and in the event any provision of the agreement conflicts with the Bylaws, applicable law, or is found to be invalid, such conflict or invalidity shall not affect the other provisions of this agreement.

*Appendix A would include Transfer Value Formula applied to an Occupancy Interest.
Appendix B would include a final survey of property.

APPENDIX G

Transfer Value Formula

Transfer Value Formula

Initial Acquisition Price (IAP)

- + Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for ____ years
(# of years I occupied the private dwelling)
- + Net value of improvements
- = Highest price I may charge for my occupancy interest

This formula does not include the grant value of $8,850, which was used to pay for the initial building costs exclusive of the IAP.

Example of the Transfer Value Formula

Jane purchases her Occupancy Interest for the initial acquisition price of $75,000, lives in the Private Dwelling for 10 years, and adds a Cooperative-approved toolshed, with a net improvement value of $500 (even though it cost $900 to build).

Inputting the numbers into the formula:

- $75,000.00 Initial acquisition price
- + 7,846.66 Up to 1% of IAP compounded per annum for 10 years
- + 500.00 Net value of improvements
- = $83,346.66 Highest price Jane may charge for her occupancy interest

*The Net Improvement Value is determined by Bylaw Section 11.2. Usually this value does not equal the cost of the improvement. In the example provided, Jane's tool shed cost $900 to build but added only $500 in value to the private dwelling, as determined by a certified appraiser.

The Transfer Value is not a guaranteed price for an Occupancy Interest, but a ceiling price that may be charged to a willing eligible buyer.
